“The Letters” of Rennyō

Rennyō (1415-1499) was a descendant of Shinran Shonin and the eighth Monshū (head priest) of the Hongan-ji Temple in Kyoto. He has been recognized as the most important dharma-teacher after Shinran Shonin and we adore him as the Restorer or the Second Founder of Jōdo-Shinshū because of the enormous expansion of the organization during his lifetime.

At the highest point of his propagation activities, Rennyō edited and published the Shōshin-Nenbutsu-Ge (Gatha) and Jōdo Wasan (Praise) followed by the practice of the Nenbutsu as the standard service book for the everyday use by all people. With the addition of “The Letters”, this form of service has been and continues to be held daily at every follower’s home and temple.

There is an interesting fact that a large number of the Myōkonin (pure and devout Jōdo Shinshū follower whose dharma experience is tremendously deep) have appeared in succession after Rennyō to the present in particular areas where people have been followed Rennyō’s instructions of everyday service. Even among the widespread Jōdo Shinshū areas of Japan, only the people who lived in such areas had succeeded to establish their own tradition of the Nenbutsu life. Moreover, we should be remind the fact that most of our ancestors, the so-called Jōdo Shinshū Immigrants in USA had come from such areas in Japan.

Particularly, “The Letters” were effective as a guide for correct understanding of the Jōdo Shinshū teaching. Renjun, the sixth son of Rennyō reported Rennyō’s careful attitude toward writing “The Letters”:

“In order to make ignorant beings like us understand easily and quickly, he selected a hundred essential points out of a thousand, ten out of a hundred, and one out of ten, and thus wrote “The Letters”, clarifying a quick way of fulfilling the Dharma path for ordinary people. It is due solely to Rennyō’s fervent wish that the teaching of the Founder Shinran Shonin has spread all over the country.” [Renjun-Ki(record)]

Renjun clarified the inseparable relationship between “The Letters” and the spreading of the Shinshū teaching among ordinary people in Japan.

At the Jōdo Shinshū’s dharma gatherings, “The Letters”, which succinctly presented the most significant points of the teaching, were read and explained by the leaders of the Sangha (dharma followers). This was for the benefit of the common people, many of whom were uneducated. Later, reading “The Letters” became an important part of the Dharma gatherings, services and ceremonies in temples and homes of followers. Otherwise they had no opportunity to receive even a primary education, Jōdo Shinshū followers memorized “The Letters” (mostly twentytwo letters in Book V) to correct their understanding to the teachings as well as to re-read a frame of their daily life for the Buddhist living. The repeating memory of “The Letters” was sometimes counted for the social initiation to the responsible position of their community.

Unfortunately, I hesitate to say that “The Letters” has never been introduced to the American Jōdo Shinshū followers meaningfully because of the language and cultural barriers between the American and Japanese. Here I have tried to interpret some of “The Letters” from Book V which letters are exactly ‘selected a hundred essential points out of a thousand, ten out of a hundred, and one out of ten’.

Chapter V-5: SHINJIN GYAKUTOKU NO SHO

- Chapter on the Acquisition of the True and Real Awakening -

The True and Real Awakening means to know Sakya-muni Buddha’s 18th Wish-for-the-world. To knowing his 18th Wish-for-the-world is to comprehend the essence of the six syllables/six characters, “Na-mu-a-mi-to-bhah

Thus, this Buddha-as-words initiates the transference of merits to us unenlightened beings at the simultaneous instant of our total reliance on the original sense of care (=Amitabhah) with the matrix of Sakya-muni Buddha’s true heart for sharing the Dharma (=Namu).

This working is pointed out in the “Larger Sutra” where we read: “Namu Amitabhah provides all beings with all the merits”.

Since the serious karma accumulated from time immemorial becomes completely nullified through the incomprehensible working of Sakya-muni Buddha’s 18th Wish-for-the-world, we shall reside within the ranks of the Truly-Assured and the Non-Retrogressive (Sho jo jyu Fu-tai).

Accordingly and for this reason it is called “the attaining of Nirvana without the eradication of blind passions.” This tenet is particular to our way and is not to be discussed with practitioners of the others. This must be understood well.

A-NA-KA-SHI-KO, A-NA-KA-SHI-KO

(These venerable and awe-inspiring words are wasted on beings such as we.)

Graduation, Father's Day and "Rebuild Your Life Month"

It is already June! Oh my, where has the year gone? Time surely passes quickly, especially as I get older. This month, I have a few things to write and share with you.

June brings with it the beginning of the long awaited summer vacation for all the students, Father's Day, "Rebuild Your Life Month," and of course, graduations.

First, I would like to extend my congratulations to all the 2014 graduates. Your accomplishments mark an important and memorable event in your lives. You have put in many hours of hard work and study on the path to graduation, and the doors to your future are wide open, allowing you to choose your own exciting and worthwhile path. The fruits of all those difficult days and tests are ready for the picking. Every graduate has the support whether moral or financial from that special person or persons. Your parents, brothers and sisters come to mind first, but then there are also your grandparents, uncles, aunts, cousins, and family friends. But, have you thought about others? Boy and Girl Scout leaders, bosses at your jobs, team members, teachers, temple members, and yes, maybe even that minister. But those who guide us are not always just those nice and friendly people. We learn from everyone! Good and bad! We take the good from our encounters and incorporate that into our lives, but we also note the bad, and try to ensure that we are not bad, or do not do those things that we think are bad. This is kind of like the "middle way." We learn from both sides good and bad. Our gratitude extends to many, just not those we like. And, we need to be thankful to each and every one of them.

June is also when we formally observe Father's Day. I seem to appreciate Father's Day more and more each year AFTER my father passed away. It is very sad that I was not more appreciative and thankful toward my father while he was alive. Sometimes, we don't truly appreciate what we have until it is gone. However, one thing he told me which will always stick with me, and he said, "the greatest gift that I can give you is your education." This is indeed true. But more than that, he instilled within me the desire to learn more and more, and to continue to ask questions and seek answers. I hope that you can take some time this Father's Day and sincerely thank your father for all that he provided and contributed to your well-being, growth and character.

And I know what you've been thinking, "what is Rebuild Your Life Month?" It is an actual designation for June. I couldn't believe it until I looked up more information on the internet. But, I think it is an appropriate title to note. I'd like to explain a part of this using Steve Job's 2006 Stanford University Commencement Address. In it, he noted 3 stories. The first was about his adopted parents and his choice to drop out of college and take some classes, other than the required classes, that sparked his interest. The second was about how he got fired from Apple, the company he started. It was a devastating time in life, but as this door closed, others opened. He began the company, NeXT. And, later, NeXT was bought by Apple where his new ideas and thoughts became the foundation for those devices that we take for granted, like the iPhone and iPad. The third story was about death. He was diagnosed with Pancreatic Cancer and given 6 months to live. He was fortunate since this form of cancer was operable. He survived to live many more years. And, he began to ask himself, every morning, "If today were the last day of my life, would I want to do what I am about to do today?" And whenever the answer has been 'No' for too many days in a row, I know I need to change something." We have the ability to change ourselves, each and everyday. We don't have to wait for "Rebuild Your Life Month" to do so. This lesson is one that is found in Buddhism.

Finally, I would like to end with another Steve Job's quote:

Your time is limited, so don't waste it living someone else's life. Don't be trapped by dogma - which is living with the results of other people's thinking. Don't let the noise of others' opinions drown out your own inner voice. And most important, have the courage to follow your heart and intuition. They somehow already know what you truly want to become. Everything else is secondary... Be Hungry, Stay Foolish!

You have the ability to change yourself, NOW, JUST DO IT!

THOUGHTS FROM THE SANGHA

By Calvin Doi, Radio Broadcast Message from May 17th

Reminiscing About My Dad

Isn't it strange how time seems to go by faster as we get older. It's already the middle of May and the Obon season is fast approaching. In Central California we will be having five local Obons during the months of June and July. At the dances and services we are reminded of the story of Magallana, his mother, and the Buddha. The ministers remind us to be grateful for all those who have passed on before us.

This brings me to a short story I would like to share with you. This story is about my Dad, Toichi T. Doi, the day he died and what followed. The day before he died he had a hard time breathing, he said it felt like an elephant was sitting on his chest. Over the previous two years he had been in the hospital a half dozen times. Usually within a few days he would be back at home. He seemed to be much better so I told him I would see him in the morning. I went to work earlier than usual. My intention was to do a little work then go see my Dad. Well I kept delaying going to the hospital. I got a call from my brother, Bruce saying my dad had a massive heart attack. My brother asked, "Where were you?" My mom said Dad asked for you..."Where is Calvin..he said he would be here this morning?" I don't have to tell you how I felt. I had no answer. The one time my Dad really needed me and I wasn't there.

I now have a better understanding of Interdependence and Impermanence and realize I lived most of my life taking my Dad for granted. I sadly didn't truly appreciate him until after he died. My Dad is still guiding my way even after death. When my Dad died and his eyes closed, my eyes were opened to a completely different world. My eyes were open to: Church, Sangha and especially Jodo Shinshu, it has been an important part of my life for the last 21 years.

I wish I could have a do over. I wish I could tell my Dad how much I loved him. I sure didn't do it while he was alive. So I suggest to everyone...if you have a friend, who you haven't seen for a long time, give them a call, get some coffee, go out to dinner, if you have a sick friend, co-worker, or family member give them a call, get a card, or better yet go see them. If you know someone who is really ill or a family who has lost someone, go see them, if that is what you really want to do. If you love someone, tell them. I told my wife, Julie I loved her in front of people from seven different churches at a special combined service. Boy she was embarrassed! I think she kind of liked it.

In today's world it is easy to make excuses. So, just do what you think is right. Try to live your life with as few regrets as possible. It will help you live a happier life. Be grateful for everything and everyone. Right now I am grateful, grateful for being allowed to share my thoughts with you.

Reading from Rev. Gyomay Kubose:

"When we are truly able to see and understand life, its reality, its value and beauty as well as its troubles, we are able to accept life dynamically and walk its path with appreciation and gratitude. This way of life is Buddhism."

BUDDHIST WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

By Julie Doi, BWA Newsletter Writer

June is the month of Gakko for the kids, vacations, graduations, weddings and Father's Day. It is also the month summer begins! Obon is just around the corner, in fact, talk about changes, this year the first Central California Obon is on June 28 in Visalia! Our first Parlier Obon practice starts on Monday, June 16th.

We were very fortunate to have Rev. Midori Nakagawa as our guest speaker for our May Gotan-E Service this year. As MA's we are learning alot from her as far as proper Buddhist etiquette, although each Reverend seems to do things alittle differently. Thank you Group Three, headed by Lynn and Glenn Yoshimoto, for cleaning the church and Toban group - City headed by Yuki Goishi and Ruby Yukawa for the Otoki (refreshments) after the service! Thank you to May Takata for the refreshments for the Board Meeting.

Thank you also to Toshie and Yuki Mori for being in charge of organizing the bouquets for the cemetery and BWA members for bring, assembling and placing the bouquets at the cemetery! You always come through and bring an abundance of beautiful flowers. Thank you also to Curtis, Yuki and James for helping! Special thanks to Lily Araki who furnished all the statis flowers.

Another change this year was our MA's were in charge of the Memorial Day Service this year. Calvin Doi was in charge of the service and Yuki Mori gave a wonderful Dharma Talk. Toshie and Yuki will be going to Japan in the later part of the year to continue their studies and move up to the next level, Tokudo.

Cheryl, Toshie and Yuki went to visit Irene Kozuki who was in the Selma Hospital.

This month our cleanup will be Group One heading by Fusa Ishimaru and Otoki by Toban Group South headed by Miyo Ohara and Carol Guerra. Carol Guerra is also bring the refreshments for the board meeting in June.

The Taichi group continues to exercise and have fun every Thurs from 8a-9a. Taichi will move to the Parlier Park on Thurs., June 19 for the summer. The Welcome Center continues to provide activities and food for everyone who attends. It is held from 9:15a on Thurs. at the Parsonage. Yuki will also do a session on breathing exercises and will have a Health Corner in our upcoming newsletters.

At the CCBWL meeting, a CD with photos taken at the conference and an 8x10 group picture taken at the March conference were given to each chapter. You can order photos through Cheryl. The 43rd FBWA conference will be held in Irvine on Oct. 10-12. "Sharing our Life Stories as Buddhists," is the theme of the conference. Nine tremendous special guest speakers from different Buddhist traditions will help us to better understand our own tradition. We come to appreciate that our view of the world is only one of many. Through sharing our life stories as Buddhists, we gain a deeper understanding of our own tradition, our lives and the world. Let Cheryl know if you are interested in attending the Conference. One of our FBWA projects started around 5 years ago was to have pictures of Eshinni and Kakushinni placed somewhere near the alter of every BCA Church, because of their great part they played in spreading the Jodo Shinshu tradition. A CD with pictures of them was sent to us from Japan and have been framed and are ready to hang in all Central California Buddhist Churches.
